

My Viking Shield

One weekend I decided to make a Viking shield, since “The Vikings” is our WAU topic.

My mum cut out a big cardboard circle and I painted the four corners red, orange, yellow and green. I went over my coat of paint twice, which worked brilliantly!

Next of all, my mum and I stuck silver tape in a cross, separating the four quarters of my shield. Then, my mum helped me stick silver tape in a circle, around the outside, in little pieces. While the shield was drying, I drew pictures of Viking objects, (a longboat, Thor's hammer, a sword and shield and a Viking helmet) which I coloured in with my carandache pencils.

When the paint was fully dry I stuck on my Viking pictures and covered the back of my shield with silver tape. Then I covered a strip of cardboard with tinfoil and stuck it on the page as a handle. Next of all, I searched up the Viking alphabet and wrote “VIKING JOSEPH CREASY'S SHIELD” in Viking runes. I got my Viking sword and shield. I WAS READY FOR BATTLE!
